Seven students across Karnataka score 625/625

Manaswini Pradeep of Vijaya Vittala and Madhuri of Karnataka Public School top Mysuru with 624 marks; Lakshan of Adarsha Vidyalaya scores 622

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (KMS,BLU &DM)- Karnataka has recorded 94.1 pass percentage in SSLC exams-1 (2025-26) of State Board held from Mar. 18 to Apr. 2.

Announcing the results at Bengaluru this noon, Minister for School Education and Literacy Madhu Bangarappa said a historic result of 94.1% pass has been achieved for the first time.

Manaswini (624/625) Madhuri (624/625) Lakshan (622/625)

Pointing out that 7,70,209 students had appeared for the exam, Madhu Bangarappa said the evaluation was held at 237 evaluation camps in 35 districts and was completed on Apr. 16.

Out of the 7,70,209 students, 7,24,794 students have passed, thus recording a State pass percentage of 94.1, which is an increase by 14.06 percent when compared to last year (2024-25).

Continuing with the trend for the past several years, girls have performed better than boys this year too, with girls recording a pass percentage of 96.18 as compared to 91.94 percentage of boys.

"Rural area students' pass percentage is more than that of urban area students. The Government Schools have performed well this year, recording an increase of 16.8 percentage pass from last year," Madhu Bangarappa said.

"Another noticeable point is that marks scored by individual students has also increased, with 66.5 percentage of students scoring more than 60 percentage marks," he said adding that students have benefitted with the reduction of passing marks from 35% to 33%.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Many of us have mixed memories of our childhood: a good portion of joyful moments, a certain number of painful memories, a few life-changing experiences and many routine recollections. These memories exist in a cohesive narrative that continues to give us a unique sense of who we are, what we want and how the world is. This narrative got created as we lived our lives, experienced our emotions, shared it with those around us and learned how to find meaning in our lives. It is this narrative which tells us that despite all cycles of ups and downs, life is beautiful and worth living.

But an increasing number of our children are grappling with a disconnected narrative of darkness, agony and suffering. A lot of them feel and express that life is very painful, traumatic and difficult. Rates of self-harm and suicidal thoughts have increased alarmingly by 22% in children in recent times, according to a study, published in the journal of Social Psychiatry and Psychiatric Epidemiology. How do we understand and deal with this worrying trend?

An important causative factor behind this phenomenon is loneliness. When children feel low, they need a person who loves them and has a fair degree of patience and wisdom to tell them what is happening, how they can soothe themselves and find a meaning in their experience. Adults are too busy and too fatigued to deal with children's emotional turmoil. Consequently, children are left to themselves, their peer group and their young role models on social media to make sense of their pain. The result is that children keep telling themselves that life is traumatic, the other children around them keep reaffirming it and social media keeps on endorsing it... Life continues to feel dark if we keep focusing on trauma, misery and pain. Change happens when we start noticing and admiring the silver lining in the dark cloud.

So, what is the silver lining that we can encourage our children to notice. I can think of two very important virtues that we seem to have forgotten. The first is gratitude: acknowledging and appreciating the small joys that life offers us daily, the things we often take for granted and do not feel thankful for. The second is: perceiving pain as an opportunity. We often feel that pain is an anomaly and it should not be a part of our life. However, we don't realise that it is this pain that tests our endurance and if we can find a way to face it with wisdom, it can offer us tremendous self-growth...

That's why as parents, grandparents, teachers and as a conscious society, it is now very crucial to prioritise children in our lives. —Pulkit Sharma in The Times of India

Woman gets rid of 250 tattoos

Amsterdam: A woman underwent dozens of painful tattoo removal sessions to get rid of the 250 tattoos inked by her ex-boyfriend, including his name and initials.

Referred to only as 'Joke' by Stichting Spijt van Tattoo, the middle-aged woman reportedly endured years of abuse and could only cope by numbing herself with alcohol and pills. Her controlling ex reportedly bought a cheap tattooing machine online and personally inked about 250 tattoos on her body, including "property of", his name and his initials.

Asked if she did anything to fight back against her abusive ex-boyfriend, Joke said that she reported him to the Dutch authorities, but he has yet to face any consequences.

Politician gets attention for his moustache

Karlıova: A local politician from Turkey recently gained international notoriety online thanks to his luscious moustache.

Orhan Avci was recently appointed chairman of the Huzur party in the Karlıova district of the eastern Turkish province of Bingöl. To mark his appointment, his party shared a photo of him and the provincial chairman, Sait Mocu, which got a lot of attention because of Avci's moustache.

To say Orhan Avci has an impressive moustache would be a serious understatement. It's so luxurious that it completely distracts you from the man's bald head. You can't even see his mouth!

Avci's cool stache has inspired a series of humorous comments and nicknames, including the Turkish Final Boss.

Two arrested for stealing railway relays in Hassan

Hassan, Apr. 23 (BCT)- Two persons have been arrested by the Railway Protection Force (RPF) in connection with the theft of railway relays (safety-critical electromagnetic switches that control signalling to ensure safe train operations), with property worth about Rs. 99,000 recovered.

Acting on specific information, RPF personnel intercepted a man moving suspiciously on a Honda Activa without a number plate near the Railway Institute at around 5.20 am. On questioning, he identified himself as Shriramu alias Vijay (34), a resident of Hassan. A hammer and a metal piece were found on him.

During interrogation, he admitted that he had entered the railway premises around 2.30 am with the intention of committing theft, but abandoned the plan due to Police movement in the area.

He also confessed to having stolen railway relays from a store room 10 to 15 days ago by breaking open the lock, and selling them to a scrap dealer in city.

Based on his statement, the RPF team searched for the scrap shop near SBI Bank in Gowri Koppalu. The shop owner admitted to purchasing 51 relays for Rs. 8,000.

During the search, 22 broken relays with copper coils and about 5.7 kg of copper wire extracted from the remaining relays were recovered. The shop owner was also arrested.

The seized materials, found in dismantled condition, along with the two-wheeler and tools used in the offence, have been confiscated.

Both accused have been brought to the RPF Post in Hassan for further legal action.

Unregulated parking in Gokulam

Sir,

To add to the letter published in Star of Mysore regarding traffic conditions at the State Bank of India corner in Gokulam 3rd Stage, I would like to say that it has become extremely dangerous to drive in this area. Drive we must, as we live on 2nd Main.

From afternoon onwards, large cars are parked along the main road up to the junction, obstructing the view for anyone turning between 2nd Main and 9th Cross. At times, vehicles are even parked right at the corner, including in front of the entrance to a café-cum-homestay.

When the corner residential property was being converted into a café, I had asked the builders about parking arrangements for visitors, but there was no clear answer. It appears every available space has been used for commercial activity, with little regard for long-time residents.

Driving through this stretch has become frustrating. There is no footpath left for pedestrians, as these spaces too have been taken over.

In fact, the entire 2nd Main has turned into a parking lane. Many old houses that once had space to park vehicles within their premises have been converted, pushing vehicles onto the road.

As we grow older, instead of peace, we are exposed to constant risk. We can neither walk safely nor drive with ease, nor even rest peacefully due to increasing commercial activity and noise.

I request the Traffic Police to address the parking issue at the earliest and restore footpaths for pedestrians, as they are currently being used entirely for parking vehicles.

Mysuru's GRS Fantasy Park wins Big at IAAPI Awards-2026

GRS Fantasy Park team members Sunil, Naveen Kumar, M. Ashwin Dange (Director), Shivalinge Gowda, Srikanth, Sathish Kumar and Chaitra Devaiah at the IAAPI Awards ceremony.

Mysuru, Apr. 23- In a significant achievement for Karnataka's tourism and entertainment sector, GRS Fantasy Park, Mysuru, has been honoured with two major accolades at the Indian Association of Amusement Parks and Industries (IAAPI) Awards-2026, widely regarded as India's most prestigious recognition platform for the amusement and leisure industry.

The Mysuru-based park secured 1st place in Best Digital Marketing and 2nd place in Best Events, reinforcing its growing reputation as a leader in both innovative outreach and immersive guest experiences.

Winning the top spot in digital marketing highlights GRS Fantasy Park's strategic embrace of technology and storytelling to engage modern audiences.

Meanwhile, the 2nd place finish in the Best Events category underscores the park's commitment to delivering memorable, high-quality experiences. From seasonal festivals to themed celebrations, GRS has consistently focused on creating events that resonate with families and younger audiences alike.

Putting Mysuru on the National Map

These recognitions are noteworthy given the park's location outside India's major metro hubs. The wins signal how a regional brand from Mysuru is competing with and often outperforming larger, more established players across the country.

The IAAPI Awards are judged by industry experts and evaluate parks on parameters such as creativity, operational excellence, safety and customer satisfaction. Securing top honours in two distinct categories positions GRS Fantasy Park as a benchmark for peers nationwide.

As the Indian amusement industry continues to evolve, GRS' recognition for both digital innovation and experiential excellence suggests a blueprint for future growth, one that blends technology, creativity, and a deep understanding of visitor expectations.

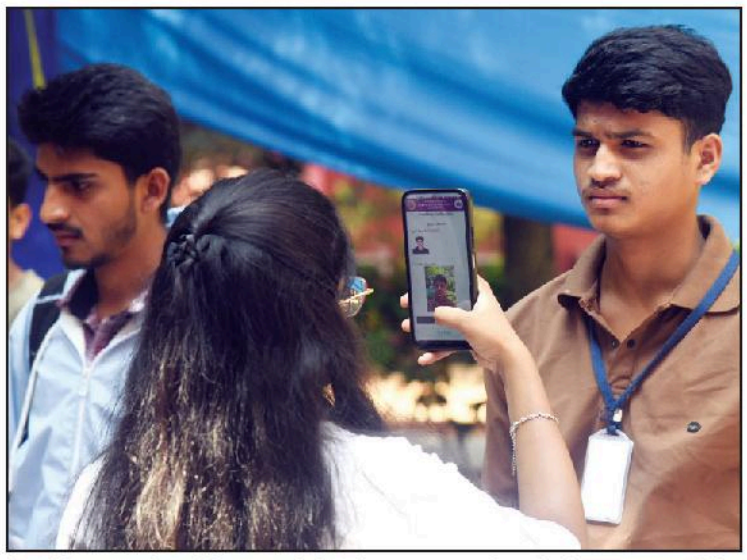
17,736 students appear for CET in city



A woman constable checking the candidates using a hand-held metal detector at a CET centre in city this morning. Picture right shows a student being scanned for facial recognition using a mobile application.

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (GA&VNS)- A total of 17,736 students appeared for the Under Graduate Common Entrance Test (UG-CET) conducted by Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA) at 36 centres across the city this morning. The students, on arrival at the examination centres, were checked thoroughly by Police personnel using metal detectors at the entrance. Following this, the students were subjected to face recognition through a mobile application to ensure only the registered candidates were appearing for the examination. The authorities had also set up 36 flying squads, which were seen visiting different centres across the city.

Today being the first day of the two-day examination, the students appeared for Physics exam in the morning session between 10.30 am to 11.50 am and later appeared for Chemistry exam held between 2.30 pm and 3.50 pm. Tomorrow (Apr. 24), the students will appear for Mathematics exam in the morning session between 10.30 am and 11.50 am and Biology exam in the afternoon session between 2.30 pm and 3.50 pm.

The district administration to ensure transparency and prevent malpractices during the examination has installed CCTV cameras at all 36 examination centres which are being monitored through the command centre at the Deputy Commissioner's Office.

Karnataka Examination Authority had issued guidelines for the students to be followed. Rape complaint by US tourist

Kodagu homestay licence cancelled

Victim to record her statement before a Magistrate in Mysuru

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (AG&BCT)- The Kodagu Deputy Commissioner, who is also Chairman of the District Tourism Committee, has cancelled the licence of a homestay at Kutta following allegations of rape made by a woman tourist from the United States.

The homestay, operated by P.A. Ponnappa of Faith Cinchona Estate, had been granted a five-year licence by the Tourism Department on Jan. 15, 2024, valid till Jan. 15, 2029.

According to officials, the action follows a report from the Kutta Police, who registered a case after the woman alleged that she was sexually assaulted after being given a drug-laced drink by a worker at the property.

Police have booked a case (Crime No. 34/2026) under relevant provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, including charges related to rape, assault and other offences.

A cook, identified as Vrujesh Kumar, a native of Jharkhand, has been arrested on charges of rape. The homestay owner, P.A. Ponnappa, has also been taken into custody on charges of destruction of evidence and alleged attempts to cover up the incident. Both have been produced before a Court and are under judicial custody.

Acting on the Police communication, the District Tourism Committee ordered the immediate cancellation of the homestay's registration.

The Deputy Commissioner said tourism licences are subject to strict compliance with law and safety norms and any violation of this nature would invite stringent action.

Treatment in Mysuru

Sources said the victim, a resident of Washington, is undergoing treatment at a hospital in Mysuru. Medical examination has confirmed sexual assault, and further procedures are underway.

Officials from the Consulate General of the United States in Chennai and the Ministry of External Affairs are assisting the victim and are currently camping in Mysuru.

Arrangements are being made to record her statement before a Magistrate, likely today or tomorrow. Sources added that she is expected to return to the United States on Saturday, Apr. 25.

Further legal procedures, if required, may be conducted through video conferencing, officials said. Meanwhile, local authorities and senior Police officials, including a Director General of Police in Bengaluru, are closely monitoring the case as it moves towards recording the victim's statement before a Magistrate.

Vedike alleges curbs on Hindu symbols, stages protest

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (PM&BCT)- Members of the city unit of Hindu Jagaran Vedike staged a protest last evening, alleging that employees at Lenskart outlets were being discouraged from wearing traditional Hindu symbols such as kumkum and bangles.

The protest was held outside the company's showroom on D. Devaraj Urs Road. Activists later entered the store, applied kumkum on staff members and tied saffron threads on their wrists. A similar demonstration was also held at the outlet on Kalidasa Road.

Store staff, however, told the protesters that no such restrictions were in place at the Mysuru outlets. The activists maintained that such practices had been reported elsewhere and warned that any attempt to impose similar curbs in the city would be opposed.

Speaking to reporters, Vasanth Kumar, city unit leader of Hindu Jagaran Vedike, alleged that the company had instructed employees not to wear bindis, nose rings or bangles, calling it an affront to Hindu religious sentiments.

He also called for a boycott of the company's products and warned of wider agitation if the policies were not reviewed.

Other members, including Sandesh, student leader Srinidhi, RJ Avinash and women's wing leaders Yashodha Narayan and Yashodha Raj, were present.

'Bid to reclaim land allotted to farmers at Choranahalli'

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (GA&BS)- Alleging that constant attempts are being made to reclaim the agricultural land allotted to farmers at Survey No. 27 in Choranahalli, Varuna hobli in the taluk, farmer leader Manju Kiran has warned of staging an aggressive protest, if the farmers are meted out any injustice.

Addressing media persons at Patrakarthara Bhavana in the city recently, Kiran said, nine acres of land in Survey No.27 at Choranahalli was allotted to six farmers way back in the year 1950 and even kimmat (price of the land) was collected from the farmers. Now, attempts are being made to reclaim the land in the name of Government land.

Since 1950, the farmers who were granted the land, have been eking out a living through cultivation of crops. Even if any land is required for executing any Government project, there is still 17 acres of land available in the same survey number. It has become common to see the individuals visiting the land along with earth moving machines and initiate any works. It has indeed become a routine task to send the men and machines back. That apart, some of the farmers are forced to camp at the spot to keep a watch, said Kiran.

Earlier, when the farmers moved Court over the same issue, the ruling came in favour of the farmers. In addition, they have submitted all available records to Regional Commissioner, Mysuru division, who has directed the Tahsildar to submit a report. If the findings of the report contradicts the stand of the farmers, aggressive protest will be staged, warned Kiran.

Chandramma, Mahadeva Swamy, Mahadevappa and Manju were present.

Hospitals brace for heatwave

Heatstroke wards readied at K.R. Hospital and Cheluvamba Hospital in Mysuru

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (MTY&VNS)- With the India Meteorological Department (IMD) forecasting a hotter-than-usual summer and temperatures likely to rise by up to 3°C above normal, Government hospitals across the State are gearing up to handle heat-related illnesses.

Following State Government's directions, district hospitals have begun setting up dedicated heatstroke wards.

In Mysuru, both K.R. Hospital and Cheluvamba Hospital have established such facilities. While a ward has been set up in the surgical block at K.R. Hospital, a similar facility has been made on the first floor of Cheluvamba Hospital to cater to children.

Mysore Medical College and Research Institute (MMCRI) Dean and Director Dr. K.R. Dakshayani said that each hospital has set up a 30-bed heatstroke ward.

"Each ward is staffed with a duty doctor, two nurses working in shifts and a Group D employee. All necessary medicines have been stocked to treat patients based on their symptoms," she said.

She added that no heatstroke cases have been reported so far. "Heatstroke cases are relatively rare in the Mysuru region, as we have not seen many over the years. However, the wards have been set up as a precaution following Government directions, so that we are prepared for any emergency," she said.

Dr. Dakshayani advised that people above 40 years and those with comorbidities such as BP and TB should take extra care.

"They should avoid going out after 8 am and stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water and tender coconut," she said. For children, she recommended staying indoors between 11 am and 5.30 pm.

DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Quarrelling Hindu Gods

One of the unique features of Hindu temple traditions is the stories of the resident god quarrelling with the resident goddess. These take the form of a domestic spat and through the storytelling and rituals that enact this quarrel, audiences are drawn into the lives of the gods and the divine.

This participation in divine acts (leela) was the original Bhakti practice from around the 8th century, where devotees engage in the divine activities, participate in temple ceremonies, enjoy them and experience god. After the 12th century, the idea of submission to a deity, who protects and saves you, emerged under influence of Sufis of Central Asia who always saw the devotee as one of lower status before the almighty, not a member of god's family.

The story of the god and goddess quarrelling is found among both worshippers of Shiva and Vishnu.

In the case of Shiva, the tale revolves around Parvati becoming angry with Shiva's indifference towards her, as he prefers meditation and isolation on Mount Kailash while she is left to care for the children. Exhausted, she goes to her parents' house. This tradition is observed on the Konkan coast during Gauri Puja and in Bengal as the worship of Durga.

Parvati enjoys her mother's hospitality, eats her food, and, once she calms down, returns home. In some stories from the Konkan coast, it is said that Shiva sends his followers (ganas) after her. Other narratives depict the goddess taking the form of a tribal woman, while Shiva follows her as a tribal man, dancing and singing to impress her. Alternatively, she takes the form of a fisherwoman and Shiva descends to earth, appeasing her by impressing her family with his fishing skills.

The stories involving Vishnu are slightly different and are told in regions such as the Mahanadi River delta in Puri, Odisha and the Kaveri River delta of Tamil Nadu. In Puri, when Jagannath returns from his rath yatra with his brother and sister, Lakshmi stops him from entering the temple, insulting both his sister, for having a flat nose, and him, for having round eyes like sieves. Eventually, Jagannath calms Lakshmi down by offering her rasgulla and praising her culinary skills.

Further south, in Srirangam, the Lord Ranganatha Vishnu returns after travelling across the city. The goddess Lakshmi Ranganayaki is angry because she knows he has spent time with the goddess Neela, his other wife. To calm her down and appease her, Vishnu offers gifts and sings her praises and the two finally reconcile and return to the temple.

As in case of Puri temple ritual, Lakshmi shuts the temple door and opens it only after being cajoled with gifts. In Srirangam, the deity travels silently through the streets asking devotees to give him gifts by which he can calm his furious consort.

The common ritual practices reveal a clear connection between Srirangam temple and Puri temple. This may have something to do with the Chola influence along western coast around the 12th century and the spread of Ramanuja's ideas and temple ritual practices. Additional we are told in Srirangam that Vishnu returns after visiting Goddess Neela, the blue or dark goddess, while in Puri, Vishnu returns from Nilanchal, the blue or dark mountain.

Similar stories of quarrel are found in the Tirupati temple and the Pandharpur temple. Both are Vishnu temples. Vishnu stands alone without his consort in both temples, who has a separate temple, exerting her anger and autonomy. This is very different from Shiva temples where the god and his goddess are together always in the sanctum sanctorum.

Another such quarrel takes place during the festival celebrating the wedding of Meenakshi of Madurai to Somasundara Shiva. Her brother Vishnu from the nearby Alagar temple is invited to give his sister away in marriage. But he is delayed due to the attack of robbers. When he learns his sister's marriage has already taken place, he turns back in a huff. To pacify him, the newly married Meenakshi comes to Vaigai River to meet her brother and he gives her gifts in the middle of the river in a grand ceremony and then turns back to Alagar hill without entering Madurai.

These stories of tension and reconciliation reveals the medieval tensions between communities that worshipped Shiva, Vishnu and Shakti. Vishnu was Shakti's brother and Shiva was Shakti's husband. Thus, through family ties all gods were connected. This made sense to the Hindus.

In later Bhakti traditions, shaped by Sufi ideas of submission, this family connection does not exist. Ram and Krishna become more transcendent and distant. The devotee becomes the lost wandering soul seeking union with the cosmic soul. Stories of quarrels are downplayed. This happened after the 1500s.

Bhakti, thus, changed with time. There is a pre-Sufi Bhakti of Hinduism based on temple rituals, family drama, marriages, quarrels and reconciliations. This persists in temple traditions of the southern and eastern parts of India. The post-Sufi Bhakti of Hinduism, which was more about submission to divine and royal power, came later and dominates north Indian devotional practices.

Snake bites: A serious global health problem

Venomous snake bites are a serious global health problem, causing an estimated 81,000 to 1,38,000 deaths each year. Strikingly, India is the worst-affected.

According to an ICMR task force, around 58,000 people die annually in India alone, thus accounting for nearly 40% of the global burden that is about 160 deaths each day. Unfortunately, the breadwinners of poor farming families settled in deep pockets and rural, remote places are the worst affected.

In addition to deaths, snake bites leave many survivors with severe, harmful complications. Most snake bite cases in India are caused by four species: Cobra, Krait, Russell's Viper and Saw-scaled Viper, collectively known as the "Big Four."

Treatment

The only available treatment is polyvalent antivenin therapy (Antibodies raised against the venoms of the Big Four snakes), which can save lives if treated in time. However, currently, no therapy is available to prevent or treat the ongoing tissue damage caused, especially by Viper bites at the site of the bite.

Prof. Kemparaju, Prof. Girish and their group work extensively on venom pharmacodynamics, with a focus on its effects on immune cells, thrombosis and hemostasis, extracellular matrix biology and platelet biology.

Their research areas include understanding the mechanisms underlying Viper bite-induced sustained tissue damage, venom-induced oxidative stress and hypoxia and strategies for venom neutralisation using anti-venoms and small molecules.

Their group also investigates venom variability arising from the geographic distribution of snake species and characterises bioactive molecules with therapeutic potential.

In platelet biology, their work emphasises understanding the crosstalk between pathways that regulate platelet death and survival under various clinical conditions, with particular attention to heme-mediated signalling events.

Prof. Kemparaju, Prof. Girish and their group have made many landmark discoveries in snake venom pharmacology and these are published in various top-tier journals.

WORD OF THE DAY

Mayhem

Pronunciation: MAY-hem (noun).
Meaning: Mayhem refers to needless or willful damage or violence and especially to a scene or situation that involves a lot of violence. In figurative use, it may refer to any instance of excited activity.
Origin: Legally speaking, mayhem refers to the gruesome crime of deliberately causing an injury that permanently disfigures another. The word comes via Middle English from the Anglo-French verb maheimer ("to maim") and is probably of Germanic origin; English verb maim comes from the same ancestor. The "disfigurement" sense of mayhem first appeared in English in the 15th century. Centuries later, the word came to refer to any kind of violent behaviour. Nowadays, mayhem is frequently used to suggest any kind of chaos or disorder, even in far less fraught circumstances, as in "there was mayhem on the field after the winning goal was scored."
Example: "The storage space is a veritable Fort Knox safe from tornadoes, floods, earthquakes and all manner of mischief and mayhem, where the 68-degree temperature and 45% humidity are ideal for preserving paper and film." —Lisa Gutierrez, The Kansas City Star, 3 Mar. 2026.

THE ODD WORD

Ebberman

One who fishes under bridges.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Easier said than done

Meaning: The phrase 'Easier said than done' is said of a task that is easier to talk about than to do.
Origin: Like so many popular sayings, the origin of the phrase 'Easier said than done' can be found in venerable literature. This common expression was first seen in print in the Terentius Afer's 1483 book, Vulgaria Terentii, and was worded in the language of the day as: "It is easyer to saye than to do."
Example: "Finding a good job is easier said than done."
